Jake is in trouble with both his wives, but that's nothing new. They have banished him from their homes because they are enduring endless pregnancies that only advance when he's in the room with them and who wants to be very pregnant for years on end?

So he's been off having fun with Lana and Esta, learning magic at the foremost university on the subject in the multiverse. The three of them have become the go-to-team for the university whenever anything needs fixing.

His dragon, Fluffy, has joined Dragon society and they are trying to find out where the Krake come from. The Krake are energy creatures that seem to have it in for Jake, and who are in contact with the Diabli, lizard like wizards of immense power that even the most ancient civilizations of the multiverse fear.

Meanwhile, Bronwyn has been spying on the Diamond Worlds and their resurgent anti-wizard army, The Knights of Justice. Jake almost wiped them out a few years ago with the help of the Dragons, but they are back, and the leader of the Diamond Worlds is under the control of a Krake. Not that Jake cares; live and let live is his moto. However, Bronwyn sees them as a threat to Tydan.

So it's all set up to go pear shaped. All it needs is one good push and Bronwyn has the leverage to make Jake do it. She is willing to fix Jake's wives - for a price.

This adventure takes Jake to new worlds and he uncovers secrets about the war to come. He discovers new truths about himself as he fights to save his friends and family. Messing with the Diamond Worlds was bound to lead to trouble. This time some of that is going to take place at home whether he likes it or not, and worse, high tech empires are beginning to take an interest in the Earth.
