A Cat May Look at a King: & 8 Other Stories to Tell to Your Cat Ramsay Wood

"When Ramsay Wood retells a story he makes a proper job of it." - The Times

From around the world - Korea to Ireland, Burma to France - come these nine hardy cat tales, stories that have survived for generations because of their enduring popularity.

Vicious, affectionate, murderous or benign - however you view cats you will find them portrayed here in full contradictory splendour.

Aided by eight top illustrators, Ramsay Wood retells a lively, personal selection. His previous book was the highly acclaimed "Kalila and Dimna - Selected Fables of Bidpai", which was adapted for the stage as "A Word in the Stargazer's Eye" at the 1984 Edinburgh Festival. He was the Secretary of the London-based College of Storytellers until 1991.

"A cat may look at a King, and a swain's eye hath as high a reach as a lord's looks." - Robert Greene, 1590

About the Author

Ramsay Wood was born in 1943 into a US diplomat's family and lived in Vietnam, the Philippines, Scotland and France before settling in London. He was a teenage apprentice in Saigon to the photographer Henri Huet. After dropping out from Harvard in 1964 he became a freelance photojournalist in Britain, East Africa, and Pakistan.

In 1971 he founded Frame Up Ltd, a wholesale picture-frame company which he ran from London with twenty cohorts until 1997. He was a founding member of the College of Storytellers in 1981, and chairman of the British charity (No. 289910) Afghan Relief until 2002. From 2006 to 2014, using TTRS software, Ramsay taught literacy and keyboard skills to dyslexic children at Emerson House.
